

The following is an excerpt from 'BRF-3966: Secondary Briefing to the Incoming Minister: Waste and resource efficiency programme'. The briefing was submitted to Minister for the Environment Hon Penny Simmonds on 5 December 2023.

Key messages

Recycling in New Zealand has been hampered by a lack of infrastructure, lack of household confidence and confusion around recyclability, as well as the presence of too many non-recyclable materials in our supply chains. There are several opportunities to address these challenges.

Improving recycling

Recycling in New Zealand has been hampered by a lack of infrastructure, lack of household confidence and confusion around recyclability, as well as the presence of too many non-recyclable materials in our supply chains. There are several opportunities to address these challenges.